Risk management training in Oil & Gas

The course covers the fundamental aspects of Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) specifically tailored for the Oil & Gas sector and incorporating ISO31000.

You will learn about the theory and practise of risk management at an enterprise and project level, focusing on oil and gas case studies such as; oil price, working in politically unstable environments, managing projects portfolios and supply chain.

After completing this course, you will be able to:

- Prioritise project portfolios based on a risk based approach.
- Manage your contractors and create lasting and sustainable partnerships.
- Identify internal and external exposures faced by your organisation.
- Understand the risks of working in politically unstable locations.
- Understand the risks of Modern Slavery, and consider environmental and reputation risks.
